

MEDICAL DEVICES 4.0

Course location: Bergamo

Educational institution: ITS

2000 hours (including 836 internships, reorientation of skills 160 hours)

Description of a specialty:

The Senior Specialist for the production of biomedical devices – Industry 4.0

Profile:

A Senior Specialist for the production of biomedical devices – Industry 4.0 operates in the design, development and manufacturing of medical devices such as devices and kits for diagnosis, therapy and rehabilitation; she/he provides skills in the stages related to the planning and organization of production processes, and is engaged in checking the correct functioning of the final product that will be offered to the market; cares about the proper functioning of medical devices and their effective use throughout their life process, even after-sales services support.

She/he carries out tests and technical assistance interventions also with innovative 4.0 methodologies.

The Senior Specialist for the production of biomedical devices can contribute to the application of regulatory standards as well as in terms of ensuring the quality and safety of devices.

